Grace and Peace to You from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Amen

Paul wrote that we are one in Christ Jesus. That's true. But after that, we are divided in this world---divided in two—Cat people and Dog people. Oh sure, there are plenty of people that have both in their homes. My family has one cat Pippa and two dogs, Rosie and Petey (Or it might be PD or even Petie. There is some disagreement in the family as how it is spelled, and she herself has not weighed in on a preference). At any rate, and I speak only for myself, I am deep down a Cat Person. But Dog People will always say “but dogs are always so HAPPY to see you come home.” That is true, but my ego is such that I believe it is good for me to come home and Pippa my cat could not care less—at least not right away. That humbles me. My personal theory is that cats know they were once treated as gods by the ancient Egyptians and still hang onto the idea. But cats don't look so high and mighty when they fall into a bathtub, I can tell you that. The point is, even if you don't own animals, you know that down deep you are a Dog Person or a Cat person.

Perhaps the greatest thing about pets is that they, like us, are creations of God, but unlike us, they glorify God just by their existence. All creation does this. A rock has nothing to do but be a rock and it declares God's goodness in all its rockiness. The tree grows, budding in the spring, dropping leaves in the fall, and the greatness of God is declared by its treehood. But pets are different. Pets are the part of creation that we live most intimately with. They lie on our bed

HOMECOMING COME CELEBRATE! COME HOME! SUNDAY, OCTOBER 23, 2016

We will have a worship service that morning at 10:30 and afterwards a covered dish lunch. The fried chicken and ham will be provided by the Elderberries. Please bring a favorite side dish or dessert to share.

Look for the sign up sheet or call the church office at 803-794-8180.

We look forward to seeing all of you for Homecoming 2016. Please invite family and friends.

PEANUT PARTY

On Saturday, August 20, the Cameron circle sponsored a peanut party for the congregation. Lots of boiled peanuts, hot dogs and chips. Participants were asked to bring a contribution for the WELCA service project. Pastor Ron Brown provided entertainment.

with us and eat the treats we give them and make us laugh when they fall in the bathtub. And that is why we bless them. Historically, Blessing of the Animals is connected to the Feast of St. Francis of Assisi, the peaceful saint who had such regard for God's creation. And in addition to declaring God's goodness of all creation, a Blessing of the Animals service is a time when many people bring the important animals in their lives to be blessed.

This year we are holding a Blessing of the Animals service at the West Columbia Riverfront Park on Saturday, October 1. We tried last year, but the historic rains forced us to cancel. When we do these sorts of things, we are trying to accomplish a few things:

- 1) raise our visibility up in the community,
- 2) raise some money for a good cause, and
- 3) foster fellowship among different groups in the congregation.

There will be sign-up sheets in the Narthex and plenty to do. We will need to plan and get ready, and finally have the service. We have the basic service available, but we'll need to sort out what sort of hospitality we plan to have. But the most important job will be to get the word out. So this is a perfect opportunity to talk to your dog-walking neighbors a bit about Our Saviour and give them an invite. Be on the lookout for more info coming your way soon.

Peace in Christ
Pastor Lance+

COMMEMORATION PROFILES

Ruth Nicholson

The Lutheran Church, as part of its worship, celebrates the lives of notable Christians of the past. Our hymnal provides a calendar (pp. 15–17) for us to follow which recognizes these individuals on the anniversary of their deaths.

September 2

Nikolai Frederik Severin Grundtvig,
Bishop
(1783-1872)

Renewer of the church

Nikolai Grundtvig, a 19th-century Danish theologian, had strong views about returning the church to Lutheran orthodoxy, centering on the Apostles' Creed and the sacraments. He was also an authority on Norse and Anglo-Saxon sagas and wrote poetry, including a Danish version of Beowulf. Lutherans know Grundtvig as the author of hymn texts such as "O Day Full of Grace" and "Built on a Rock."

September 16

Cyprian, Bishop of Carthage
(c. 200-c.258)
Martyr

A native of North Africa, Cyprian became a Christian at age 46, was ordained a priest, and became the bishop at Carthage soon after that. He had to care for his fellow Christians in covert ways because of persecution by imperial authorities. Cyprian believed strongly in the need for unity in the church, so he urged compassion for those Christians who had compromised their faith under pressure from Rome. In 258, when Cyprian was asked to renounce his own Christianity, his refusal led to his beheading.

September 18
Dag Hammarskjöld
(1905-1961)
Renewer of society

Swedish statesman and international peacemaker, Dag Hammarskjöld began his career as a teacher before entering civil service. He was an astute financial expert whose influence extended beyond Sweden's borders following WWII. Two years after joining his country's delegation to the United Nations, he became the UN's second secretary-general. He was instrumental in bringing peaceful ends to conflicts in the Middle East in the 1950's. In 1961, while on a peace mission to the Congo, Hammarskjöld was killed in a plane crash. He was posthumously awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for that year. The depth of his spiritual life and devotion is evident in the book called Markings, based on his diaries.

BACK TO SCHOOL HUMOR

Walking through the hallways at the middle school where I work, I saw a new substitute teacher standing outside his classroom with his forehead against a locker. I heard him mutter, "How did you get yourself into this?"

Knowing he was assigned to a difficult class, I tried to offer moral support. "Are you okay?" I asked. "Can I help?"

He lifted his head and replied, "I'll be fine as soon as I get this kid out of his locker."

*****

I was teaching a life-skills class to my high school students one day, and we were discussing the various terms one might encounter in a restaurant. I asked, "What does the phrase "à la carte" mean?" "It means," a student said, "you're in the wrong restaurant."

*****

I'm a high school geometry teacher and I started one lesson on triangles by reading a theorem. "If an angle is an exterior angle of a triangle, then its measure is greater than the measure of either of its corresponding remote interior angles."

I noticed that one student wasn't taking notes and asked him why. "Well," he replied sincerely, "I'm waiting until you start speaking English."

THANK YOU

ASK JOSEPHINE

Pastor Lance & Our Saviour Friends,

We cannot thank you enough for the love you have shown us during Heyward's mishaps and knee surgery. All your prayers, cards, visits, and delicious food have been so special. Your concerns and kindness reminds us that we are so blessed to have Our Saviour as our church family.

To the above we must add a sincere thank you for all the cards, calls, kind words of sympathy, and your attendance at the service for Heyward's brother, Wendell, who passed away on July 25.

Heyward & Doris

Dear Friends,

We have begun welcoming our newest 4K students and their families into our schools in Lexington School District Two. Your church has played an important role in this process by allowing us to use your facility for the 4K screening in June. We are extremely grateful for your kindness and support. You are champions for children and we appreciate you.

Sincerely,
Early Childhood Department
Lexington School District #2

Dear Our Saviour and Friends,

We would like to thank you all for all your love and support in helping us celebrate our 50th Wedding Anniversary with the renewal of our vows. As David puts it, our next goal is 51 -- one year at a time. We'll be off on our cruise soon and look forward to sharing our venture with you all.

Love and Peace to you all,
David and Linda Griffith

Dear Josephine,

After attending out Sunday School class on July 17 and hearing the discussion on church architecture and how it relates to our worship experience, I began wondering about something related to that. When we visit various Lutheran churches, we see that some have a pulpit and a lectern and others, like OSLC, have only a pulpit. Is there a reason for this? Does it have to do with the architecture of the church, the free-standing altar, or what? Is the pulpit in some churches considered a "holy of holies" which only an ordained minister can speak from? Any light you can shed on this would be greatly appreciated.

Always wondering about something

Dear Always,

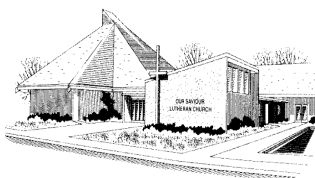

The reason there is a raised platform (Latin word: pulpitum) in the church is simply so that the person speaking can be heard by the congregation. So the pulpit was the place from where Scripture was to be read and commented on. With the involvement of lay people in worship ministries (reading Scripture) a practice evolved that reserved the pulpit for the clergy and a smaller stand (lectern) was provided for the laity. That tradition still exists in some churches where there are both a lectern and pulpit.

In some churches, however, there is just one reading/speaking stand (a way of architecturally highlighting the Reformation's emphasis upon the priesthood of all believers, or maybe because of limited finances). When there is just one stand, it is properly called an "ambo" (a Greek word meaning elevation). From the ambo, Scripture is to be read so as to be heard. That is what you have in your church.

Is it a "holy of holies"? No, the ambo is the place where a person should stand to read the Word of God and to offer reflection upon it. The piece of furniture exists for very practical reasons, so that the congregation can focus their attention and that the reader can be heard. What is holy is the Word of the Lord.

*Love,
Josephine*
