Epiphany: Noticing God at Work Among Us

January brings us into the season of Epiphany. Epiphany is a season for noticing how God is revealed in everyday life. During these weeks of the church year, we are invited to learn how to watch for God's presence in ordinary places and familiar rhythms.

During Epiphany, we hear scripture that reveals who Jesus is and, through him, who God is. At the Jordan River, Jesus is baptized, and a voice from heaven names him beloved. In Galilee, Jesus sits at table with tax collectors and sinners, where meals become places of belonging. Through healing, teaching, and calling disciples along the road, God is made known in daily life.

In 2025, our congregation lived into this way of God being made known in concrete and visible ways.

One clear example was our first Fall Festival. This was a faithful new way to show up as church right where we are. Neighbors stopped by on their way home from work. Others who pass our building regularly and have always wondered who we are came and experienced welcome and joy. This kind of presence reflects a God who meets people in motion and creates community through open space and shared delight.

We also experienced God's work through partnership. Our connections with St. Katherine's and Saluda River Academy continued to strengthen us and remind us that God often works through shared trust and collaboration. Throughout the year, God's generosity took shape through the Blessing Box and God's Helping Hands. Food was shared. Needs were met. What we receive from God was given for the sake of our neighbors.

This understanding shaped our approach to stewardship in 2025. Stewardship was practiced as a response to God's generosity, rooted in gratitude and care.

In Bible study, Sunday School, Vacation Bible School Day, and our connections with Lutheran Campus Ministries, God's revealing light was present among us. These ministries created space for faith to grow through curiosity, conversation, and relationship. We also shared many moments of joy and celebration around shared meals. Our Christmas dinner was a success, with delicious food and prizes that added to the fun. We are grateful to Pastor Jackie Utley for performing, to the Gragg boys band for leading us in music, and to the Lutheran Men and Women who planned and provided this Christmas delight. These gatherings remind us that God's presence is often revealed in many ways, including a good, long sit-down dinner and time shared together. We are deeply thankful for this life we share.

As we look ahead to 2026, Epiphany invites us to continue these patterns of faithfulness. Another Fall Festival is already on the horizon. Ministries of care, generosity, and learning continue to grow, and partnerships remain central to how we live our calling.

Epiphany teaches us that God's light appears again and again in our life together. As we begin a new year, we do so with gratitude for what we have seen and with trust that God will continue to be revealed through open hands, open doors, and a community shaped by grace.

Peace in this season of light,
Pastor Joanna

WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN JANUARY: PRACTICING ENGAGED LISTENING

As part of this Epiphany practice of noticing, you will be invited, though not required, to use an engaged listening practice during the sermons. This practice invites us to listen closely and attentively, trusting that God meets us in real words, real questions, and shared reflection.

In January, you will see simple listening sheets available in worship. They are offered as a tool to help you notice what you are hearing as the sermon unfolds. You are welcome to try this holy experiment as a way to slow down, stay curious, and trust that God is at work as we listen together.

YOUNG ADULTS MINISTRY SERVES DINNER FOR GAMECOCK LUTHERANS

This fall, our Young Adults cooked and served a full dinner for the Gamecock Lutherans at USC. What a joyful connection between our congregation and the campus community! We are grateful for Melodie Capole and Tyler Cox from OSLC for coordinating the meal, for Pastor Jesse CK, and for all the hungry students who shared in the meal. It is good to be part of a wider Lutheran family and we give thanks for the ways these relationships keep growing.

COMMEMORATION PROFILES

Ruth Nicholson

The Lutheran Church, as part of its worship, celebrates the lives of notable Christians of the past. Our hymnal provides a calendar (pp. 15–17) for us to follow which recognizes these individuals on the anniversary of their deaths.

COMMEMORATION PROFILES

January 15 Martin Luther King, Jr. Renewer of society, martyr (1929-1968)

Son of a Baptist minister in Atlanta, Georgia, Martin Luther King, Jr., earned degrees in sociology, religious studies and philosophy. After a pastorate in Montgomery, Alabama, King became co-pastor with his father at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta. He studied and accepted wholeheartedly Mahatma Gandhi's doctrine of nonviolent civil disobedience. It was this idea that Dr. King took with him as he founded the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and led a multitude of marches and demonstrations on behalf of civil rights and against both social and economic discrimination. He is remembered for those efforts and for his eloquent speeches, such as the "I Have a Dream" speech of 1963. Dr. King was assassinated during a visit to assist striking sanitation workers in Memphis, Tennessee. In 1983, his birthday (January 15) was declared a national holiday.

January 21 Agnes, martyr (291- ca. 304)

Few facts about Agnes' life can be confirmed. Tradition has it that she was born into a noble Roman family whose members were Christians. During the reign of Emperor Diocletian, it is said, Agnes refused an offer of marriage from a Roman official, knowing full well that she might endanger herself by doing so. At the age of thirteen, Agnes was put to death by Roman authorities. She is considered the patron saint of young women.

January 28

Thomas Aquinas, teacher (1224-1274)

Born into a noble family, Thomas received his early education from Benedictine monks. At the University of Naples, however, he became convinced that he should join the Dominicans, an order of mendicant friars. His family was so opposed to this that they held him prisoner for fifteen months before relenting. Thomas' studies led him to become a philosopher and theologian who believed that Christian revelation and human knowledge come from the same divine source and are therefore not in conflict with each other. Within his short lifetime, Aquinas accomplished much as a teacher and a writer of theological works. In addition, he wrote hymns, one of which is ELW 476 ("Thee We Adore, O Savior"). The church canonized Aquinas in 1323.

Happy New Year

Another year begins and WELCA is off and running with plans for the year. Marie is recuperating from her fall over the Thanksgiving Holidays and as you read this, some are still traveling over the Christmas and New Year holidays.

Circles are requested to send articles to the Vice President for publication in The Grapevine before the last Monday of the month with a copy forwarded to the President for review. Information is normally due to the church secretary on the following Tuesday morning.

The Cameron and Rebekah Circles wish to thank everyone for their presence and support of the WELCA Christmas Social with LMM of OS. We sold 50 tickets with 100% turnout from ticket sales. That's awesome! A big shoutout to Patsy Horton for all the decorations and door prizes with assistance from Linda Griffith who set up everything with Tim's Catering Service for the delicious meal. Thank you to Pastor Jackie Utley for her rendition of Rahab in the Bible and thank you Pastor Nathan and David for leading us in our Christmas song fest. Last, but not least, thanks to our circle members and LMM who helped make this event successful. Happy New Year to you all!

Notice from Hospitality Volunteers: If your name is listed on the Hospitality list in the 2025 Church Ministry Directory (Page 19) and you wish to have it removed, please contact Sandra Hughes (803-622-6191) before December 31st.
